Reader's Opinions

If I could I would probably rate this book at 3.5 stars. I had mixed emotions on reading this novel and how to rate it. This is the first novel by James Lee Burke that I have read. The setting is the bayous of Louisiana. Dave Robicheaux is a deputy in the New Iberia sheriff department. Nearly 30 years after Aaron Crown was convicted...

Though a good enough read to finish, the characters and story are weak and unmemorable from the beginning. Who was the main character again? And, what made him special? As pathetic as the antagonists are, their ends are still exceptionally unsatisfying. The style is entertaining, but the language is sometimes very awkward and lost. Before...
